

A host that sends thousands of source MACs fills the table and turns the switch into a hub. What stops it?